

The ATCN course is offered in conjunction with the ATLS program for physicians. This two day course is recommended for nurses with at least 18 months of trauma experience. Nurses attend components of the ATLS program with physicians and participate in interactive skill stations including initial assessment, head trauma, hemorrhagic shock, and pediatric trauma. The stations emphasize a systematic, collaborative approach to the initial management of trauma patients. Upon successful completion of the course, verification is good for a period of 4 years.
